SCORES PERISH IN COLLISION AT SEA

Steamer Columbia Sunk Off Coast of California.

ABOUT SEVENTY DROWNED

Though It Is Possible the Death List May Be Larger.

HAD LITTLE CHANCE TO ESCAPE

Stricken Ship Sank So Rapidly That Many of Her Passengers Had No Opportunity to Leave Her—One Hundred and Seventy-seven of the Two Hundred and Forty-nine Persons on Board the Ship Saved.

Eureka, Cal., July 23.—Hourly the death list of the marine horror off the Mendocino county coast shrinks. The best advices are that 177 of the 249 souls on board the steamer Columbia escaped death when that vessel went to the bottom near Shelter Cove between midnight and 1 o'clock of Sunday morning. One hundred and seven of the Columbia's passengers and thirty-seven of her crew have been brought to this port by the steamer George W. Elder, which towed the colliding schooner San Pedro from the scene of the disaster to Eureka. A late message from Shelter Cove says that three more lifeboats have been picked up, one of them containing eighteen persons, another fifteen, and the third's number not reported.

The survivors who were brought to this port are being cared for at hotels and in private houses. The citizens of Eureka have supplied sufficient quantities of clothing and all necessary medical attention without stint or price. A committee of citizens under the leadership of Mayor Rick's has charged itself with the duties of the hour and is performing them with energy and all possible speed.

The Columbia's passenger list shows that in her cabin she carried 78 men and 90 women and girls; in her steerage 20 men and 1 woman, a total of 189. Discrepancies, however, between the full list furnished the purser on sailing and some of the names given by survivors who have reached here indicate that the total number of passengers may have been greater.

Among the passengers saved are Lulu Hanson, Minneapolis; Hetty Goldjen, Manitowoc, Wis.; Anna Akesson, Litchfield, Minn.; Mary Walker, Minneapolis.

Filled With Water and Sank.

Eight minutes after the San Pedro struck the Columbia the latter vessel had filled full of water and sunk. The night saloon watchman notified all the passengers to go to the upper decks. Without clothing they climbed out of their berths and rushed out. It was only two or three minutes before the decks were awash. Six boats and three life rafts were cut loose and as many passengers as possible were crowded into them. There was scarcely any evidence of a panic, the women acting with heroism. The crew of the San Pedro immediately lowered a boat and picked up a large number of survivors while the boats from the Columbia lay by the San Pedro.

When the Columbia sank she carried down with her about seventy-four passengers. This estimate is not accurate and the number cannot be definitely determined until full particulars are received from Shelter Cove, where four boats are said to have been landed. Captain Doran and First Officer Whitney were on the deck when the Columbia sank, the captain's last words being: "God bless you."

According to Purser J. E. Byrnes of the Columbia there were 190 passengers aboard—168 first class, 22 steerage and 60 crew.

It is known that 107 passengers have been saved and 37 of the crew. The exact number at Shelter Cove is yet to be determined.

Just as the Columbia was sinking her boilers exploded. This counteracted the suction and saved many lives. Husbands and wives were separated and fathers and mothers and children became lost to each other in the excitement when the boats collided.

Died From Cold and Exposure.

The only dead person brought by the Elder was George T. Sparks, president of a bank at Fort Smith, Ark. He and his daughter were on their way home. Sparks when pulled upon a life raft was weak from swallowing salt water and shortly after when transferred to one of the boats he died from cold and exposure. His daughter was saved.

Two hours after the wreck the fog lifted and a cold wind commenced to blow. The people in the boats suffered greatly.

O. Swanson, a sailor of the San Pedro, was at the wheel when the fatal collision occurred. In his report to Sailors' Agent John Erickson the blame is laid upon the Columbia's officers. Other members of the crew of the San Pedro substantiated the story of Swanson. He says that the order was given to him when the lookout sighted the Columbia to put the wheel hard aport. Three points aport carried the San Pedro seawards apparently out of the way of the approaching vessel, whose name at that time was not known. Short toots from the whistles of both vessels warned the skippers. The Columbia was on the coast side, the San Pedro on the sea side. Apparently both vessels were proceeding at full speed. If all had gone well the San Pedro would have cleared the Columbia, but it is evident that an order, "put the wheel hard astarboard" was given on the Columbia. This sent her directly across the bow of the steam schooner. Whether the speed of each vessel was slackened is immaterial, for the crash of the vessels was terrific. The Columbia, an iron vessel, bore the brunt of the impact. Her iron plates cracked and a gash seven feet across the forward hatch allowed the water free ingress at a great velocity.

they all refused. She held the girl's head above water for almost two hours. The girl was unconscious most of the time. When Officer Hawse approached in a boat and asked Miss Watson to give him her hand so that he could help her in, she refused assistance until they lifted her unconscious companion on board. When the two girls were taken on board the San Pedro the doctors said that Miss Watson's companion was beyond recovery, but when they learned of the heroic efforts of Miss Watson to save her they worked hard and the young lady revived and is now all right. Miss Watson is only sixteen years of age.

LOSS OF THE COLUMBIA.

Creates Consternation in the City of Portland, Ore.

Portland, Ore., July 23.—No disaster since the San Francisco fire has created such consternation in this city as the news of the loss of the Columbia. Many of the passengers are residents of this city or relatives of Portland people. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lippman of San Francisco; Mrs. Lippman is the sister of Constable Lou Wagner. Mrs. Lippman's mother and other relatives live here. Mrs. R. B. Cannon, Miss Steila Cannon and L. O. Cannon were on their way here to visit their son and brother, R. D. Cannon, city editor of the Telegram. Mrs. W. B. Soules is the wife of W. B. Soules, marine editor of the Oregonian; Miss Mabelle Watson is the sister of E. A. Watson, a member of the firm of Tull & Gibbs. Miss Helen Churchley and Mrs. C. A. Eastman are sisters of Arthur Churchley of this city. Mrs. L. Drake and her son are residents of Portland. P. Golinsky is a brother of Mrs. Emanuel Meyer and of Mrs. I. N. Fleischmer. Mr. Fleischmer and Mr. Meyer are among the most prominent business men on the North Pacific coast.

GUARDED BY SOLDIERS.

Convicted Italians Sent on a Special Train to Louisiana Penitentiary.

Hahnville, La., July 23.—Guarded by 250 soldiers, the four Italians convicted of Walter E. Lamana's murder and the two Gebbias, who are yet to be tried, were placed on a special train bound for the state penitentiary at Baton Rouge.

The Gebbias, brother and sister, were taken to the penitentiary for safe-keeping after the court had decided that public sentiment at present makes a fair trial impossible.

Taking of testimony preparatory to charging two more Italians with complicity in the murder was ordered by the court. These two are the father and mother of the Gebbia family.

French Arsenal Looted.

Chambery, France, July 23.—Two thousand kilograms (about 4,500 pounds) of copper shell cases have been stolen from the arsenal. Seventeen persons including the guards are implicated.

NOT ADVISED BY JAPS.

Hayashi Says They Did Not Want Korean Emperor to Abdicate.

Seoul, July 23.—Viscount Hayashi, the Japanese foreign minister, describes his visit to Seoul as an excursion during the government holidays made for the purpose of communicating to Marquis Ito the demand made by public feeling in Japan for the rectification of existing conditions in Korea and to consult with the marquis as to what should be done. In view of the gravity of the crisis Viscount Hayashi has consented to say that the abdication of the emperor occurred simultaneously with his arrival in Seoul and was a surprise and marred his plans. Neither Marquis Ito nor Japan had any part in the abdication, says the viscount, but on the contrary if consulted they would not have advised it.

Regarding the report that he came to Korea on a special mission, Viscount Hayashi admitted that it was true that he came entrusted with his government's programme. Japan's position here was delicate and its responsibilities were great. An intriguing government was impossible and the plan to murder all the cabinet members, which was reported to be a scheme of the emperor for his restoration to power with a cabinet wholly anti-Japanese, was unthinkable. Regarding possible plans for the future, Hayashi said that the Korean throne had nothing to fear from the Japanese, but that there must be a competent, organized administration. Japan's programme would be executed only with regard to due forms with the consent of the constitutional sovereign and was subject to modification according to conditions. Japan had already modified its plans and if the Korean throne established a competent government Japan would deal with it. At present the Japanese authorities were wholly concerned with the restoration of order. Until this was accomplished they were unable to proceed and his mission must await normal conditions for the promotion of the welfare of the people was his foremost consideration.

Heroic Deed of a Young Woman.

R. Hawse, third officer on the Columbia, said he was in his room at the time of the wreck and he noted the shock and heard the alarm given. He makes the official statement that the Columbia floated eleven minutes after the San Pedro struck her. Officer Hawse tells of the heroic rescue of a lady passenger by Maybelle Watson, who resides in Berkeley, Cal. Miss Watson was in one of the small boats with about twenty of the passengers and crew. The boat capsized when the ship went under and they all went down. Only about ten or twelve who had on life preservers came up. Miss Watson had been in the water thirty minutes when a young woman appealed to her for help. The young woman had put her preserver on wrong and could not keep her head above water. Miss Watson asked someone to help, but

CONDENMED TO DEATH

Karl Hau Convicted of Killing His Mother-in-Law.

PRISONER REMAINS CALM

Exhibits No Emotion When Sentence Is Pronounced—Verdict Not Popular With People of Karlsruhe and a Riot Results.

Karlsruhe, Germany, July 23.—Karl Hau, former professor of Roman law in George Washington university at Washington, D. C., was condemned to death after a five days' trial for the murder of his wife's mother, Frau Molitor, a wealthy resident of Baden Baden, Nov. 6, last.

The prisoner heard the verdict of the jury with composure and chatted smilingly with his counsel after the judges withdrew to fix his sentence. Upon the return of the judges Hau arose and standing with folded arms listened to the sentence without moving a muscle. A moment later he was hurried away to prison. The sentence is unpopular with the street crowds, which have been demonstrating more and more openly for several days in Hau's favor and against the Molitor family.

After the adjournment of court for an hour's recess the women of the Molitor party were compelled to remain in one of the offices of the court because it was dangerous to appear in the streets. A carriage waited for them in the courtyard and it was several hours before they were able to leave. Meanwhile enormous crowds had assembled in the streets. Cordon of police kept the crowds in check for an hour but then lost control of them, the masses pushing forward to the doors with the evident intention of storming the entrance.

There were many shouts from the crowd of "Hau is not guilty," the voices penetrating to the courtroom. Finally two companies of infantry and a squadron of mounted police appeared on the scene and drove the rioters away.

A large number of arrests were made. One old woman was trampled by horses and it is reported that several persons were wounded.

The demonstration in favor of Hau appears to be due largely to maudlin sentiment. Another reason for the demonstrations that have taken place in the past few days appears in the state's attorneys' manner of conducting the prosecution and it is further explained by citizens that the Molitors are unpopular in Karlsruhe, having lived here until 1899.

The sentencing of Hau does not end the case. Dr. Dietz, his counsel, having in his address practically given notice of appeal.

STORM IN WISCONSIN.

Causes Loss of Two Lives and Heavy Damage to Property.

La Crosse, Wis., July 23.—The severest electrical and rain storm in years stopped traffic and paralyzed communication for more than twenty-four hours here and resulted in at least one death.

The lowlands surrounding La Crosse are inundated and the small creeks and La Crosse river are raging tor- rents, wiping out bridges and great stretches of railroad tracks.

The corpse of an unknown man was found floating in the Mississippi, together with other debris, and lies here awaiting identification.

In some places people were obliged to leave their homes in skiffs, the water rising five and six feet.

The worst of the storm evidently swept up the Kickapoo valley and was unaccompanied by wind. However the downpour of rain was so terrific that houses built upon the hillsides were washed from their foundations and were sent tumbling into ravines below. In no instance is loss of life or other serious injury reported.

Crop damage in this vicinity will be enormous, it being estimated that the entire loss will far exceed $500,000.

At the village of Waterford the people were gathering for mass in the St. Mary's church when a bolt of lightning struck the steeple, passing down, and Wenel Miksch of Milwaukie, who was leaning against the door was killed. Several other people were knocked down and severely stunned.

Mob After Kidnappers.

St. Paul, July 23.—Caged in a small harness room in a livery barn at Rice and Aurora streets, Henry Holland and a young man known as Johnson were threatened with lynching at the hands of an infuriated mob who made desperate efforts to reach them and were only prevented by hard work on the part of the police. Holland, assisted by Johnson, attempted to kidnap Holland's three year-old daughter Helen from her mother. Holland was badly beaten by the mob.

BEFORE TROOPS ARE SENT

Minnesota's Governor May Investigate Situation.

St. Paul, July 23.—Bloodshed on the Iron range is a probability within two or three days, in the opinion of Sheriff W. A. Gerber of Ramsey county, who has returned with a prisoner from Superior. Mr. Gerber spent Sunday at Hibbing in company with Sheriff W. J. Eates of St. Louis county, and while there he informed himself on the strike situation. Mr. Gerber says Sheriff Eates has sworn in 200 armed deputies at Hibbing and will probably be able to cope with any situation that may arise.

The growing seriousness of the strike of the miners on the range and of the ore handlers in Duluth makes it probable that Governor Johnson will go to Duluth in a day or two to investigate the trouble, so that in case a demand is made for troops to protect the mines and mining properties he will be in a position to take such action as the conditions seem to demand.

No request has been made as yet for troops, but the serious aspect of the strike

DESERT MINERS.

Never Ask About Another's Claims or Secret Water Holes.

"Never ask a man anything about his mine; he won't tell you if you do. It isn't etiquette to ask such things on the desert."

Thus spoke J. Heineman, late of Beatty, an old timer in Death Valley and the desert.

"You see, when one miner meets another on the desert they stop, talk and pass pleasantries. One will ask the other how he's getting along and he will say 'good' or 'hard luck,' but that's about all. Neither asks for details or where the other has his claims located. If any man wants you to know he'll tell you without being asked. If not, he won't tell you if you do ask."

"The fact is that if a man has a great body of low grade ore that he must have a force of men to work and ship to the smelters he must record it. But if he has a rich spot with free gold easily handled, it is not necessary, and many times one doesn't care to have the world know about it and have everybody coming to dig all around. It often leads to troubles and litigation, jumping and all that sort of thing."

"If a property is in the mountains it is more necessary to record it, for it is easier found. A man can be followed in the mountains, but never out on the desert. I would like to see the man who could follow me on the desert if I don't want him to. I'll give him a chance that will make him very sick of his job. Of course in such cases a claim is never left unguarded, as some one might stumble upon it by accident. In such case possession will be nine points of the law."

"This is so not only about mines, but also about private secret water holes. You know some of these give so little water that once known to the general public they would be of no use to those who went to big trouble finding them or to any one else very soon, so they never tell. Let one who has such a place hidden find one in need he will share his water, and, if necessary, he will go and bring back a supply, but the other fellow doesn't know where it comes from. That's the finder's secret."

"Of course there are public watering places, especially along the stage routes. Some wells have been dug by individuals or companies who sell water. Lots of money has been expended in this way. The water problem is indeed a serious one on the desert."

"At some of the camps water is hauled by team and sells for as high as $8 a barrel. People who don't know think that is a terrible price, but it really leaves a very small profit for the long haul and the time lost and feed of teams. Often much of the water with which one starts is used up by the horses."—Los Angeles Times.

RAILROAD NEWS

NOVEL HEATING PLAN

Moorehead, Minn., July 22.—A novel plan is to be followed in the heating of the roundhouse and machine shops at Dilworth, and the system is now being installed in the roundhouse. The hot air system has been adopted, and the heat is to be driven to all sections of the works by an immense fan, at least fourteen feet in diameter. Hot air rises, but it won't slide along on the level, and as it would be impossible to obtain a proper slope to the pipes covering such a large area, the immense fan, driven at a high speed, will be used to force the hot air through the works.

The fan will not only serve this purpose, but will serve to freshen the air during the hot summer days.

Long Live the King

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America the cry of the present day is "Long Live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryer Payne, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Payne's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the proven remedy. Guaranteed by H. P. Dunn & Co., Druggists. 50¢ and $1.00. RESOLVED FOR LID

Nearly Every Evangelical Church in Brainerd Passed Resolutions for Law Enforcements

The following resolutions were presented and passed by a rising vote in nearly every evangelical church in the city last Sunday evening.

WHEREAS, the laws of the state of Minnesota, strictly and explicitly state and demand that all saloons must be closed on the Sabbath day and at 11 p.m. on week days.

AND, WHEREAS, a recent interpretation of the law places the responsibility for the enforcement of such laws upon certain city officials, elected and appointed to such offices, the law in such cases clearly defining the penalty in the case of non-enforcement of said laws when and wherever broken:

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that we hereby urge our city and county officials, whose sworn duty it is to enforce the law in such cases, to carry out this law, and promise our support to the same.

AND, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that if this be not done, that the members and friends of this congregation assembled, will see to it that the necessary legal steps are taken to push law enforcement to the furthest extent in such cases as herein mentioned.

HUNDREDS KILLED

Lion Hunt is Dangerous—"Prince King of the Herd

Hundreds of men are killed every year in the jungles of Africa trying to capture alive the full grown black man lions, but when "Prince," the "king" of the herd of lions with the C. W. Parker Show was captured not a single life was lost; it was when he was being transferred from the ship to the cage in Singapore, Malay St night; that Prince got his first man and since that time he has five on his list, and it was not until Capt. Al G. Barnes, America's representative lion tamer got him that he was entirely subdued.

GOES BACK TO PRISON.

Zimmer Again Refuses to Testify
Against His Superior Officer.

San Francisco, July 23.—In the Louis Glass bribery trial Second Vice President Emil J. Zimmer of the Pacific States Telephone company, undaunted by the term of five days' imprisonment spent by him in the county jail last week for contempt, again refused to testify against his superior officer, First Vice President Glass. He was by Judge LaFleur resented to one day's imprisonment for contempt.

Supervisors Lonergan, Murray and Mamlock each in turn testified to his betrayal of the public trust in the acceptance of bribes for votes in favor of public utility franchises.

EIGHT LIVES WERE LOST

All the Missing at London, Ont., Have Been Accounted For.

London, Ont., July 18.—Eight lives is the toll of the calamity when Crystal Palace collapsed and buried a score of persons in its ruins. The missing have been accounted for. One man whose identity cannot be learned is still buried under twenty feet of debris and there is little hope of reaching the body for a day at least. The last body to be dug out was that of Miss Clara Mullins. Work was then practically suspended for a day.

A government commission visited the scene of wreckage and will make an investigation.

INVESTIGATION IS ENDED.

Naval Board Finishes Inquiry Into Accident on the Georgia.

Boston, July 18.—The naval board of inquiry appointed by Rear Admiral Charles H. Thomas, commanding the Second division of the Atlantic fleet, to investigate the cause of the explosion in the after superimposed turret of the battleship Georgia last Monday, which resulted in the death of nine men and the injury of a dozen others, visited the United States navy hospital at Chelsea to take the depositions of the injured men.

The board began its investigation on board the Georgia, carefully inspecting the turret in which the explosion occurred and taking the evidence of such officers and men as were familiar with the conditions about the turret at the time of the explosion and witnesses of the affair.

The Georgia steamed up the harbor and the board of inquiry transferred its investigation to the naval hospital at Chelsea.

The inquiry was secret. The work of the board of inquiry at the naval hospital consumed about two hours and at its conclusion the board returned to the Georgia.

It is understood that the investigation of the board is practically complete and that its findings soon will be transcribed and forwarded to Washington through Admiral Thomas.

It has been learned that the dead seaman known as George Miller enlisted under an assumed name. His right name was Benjamin Kreiger.

He left his home in Brooklyn last February and enlisted in the navy.

Remarkable Feats of Marksmanship.

Remarkable shooting was done at Fort Adams the other afternoon by the Fourteenth and One Hundred and Ninth batteries, coast artillery, says a Newark special dispatch to the New York Herald. They used the twelve inch mortar batteries and the ten inch breech loading rifles and fired at a target representing a battleship 7,000 and 8,000 yards out at sea. It was a moving target, the highest speed of a battleship being simulated. Each battery had three trial shots. Then the bombardment of the imaginary vessel began. Each battery fired eight shots with mortars and eight with the rifles. In all thirty-two shots were fired, and every one hit the mark.

FOR HAYWOOD'S LIFE

Attorney Richardson Pleads
With Jury at Boise.

EULOGIZES THE FEDERATION

Lawyer for the Defense Praises the Excellent Character of the Miners'
Organization—Reviews Events Following Death of Steunenberg.

Boise, Idaho, July 23.—For four hours and a half E. F. Richardson pleaded with the jury for the life of William D. Haywood. Under order of the court the hours for the day's sessions were changed and court met at 6 o'clock in the evening.

The preliminary hearing of the case of Dr. I. T. McGee, one of the witnesses for the defense charged with perjury, came up Monday afternoon and will be continued. Orchard was on the stand for over an hour and was given a severe grilling in the cross-examination by McGee's counsel. The prisoner-witness, however, maintained his characteristic calm throughout. He denied that he was in the Coeur d'Alene at the time McGee swore to a meeting with him at Wallace.

C. W. Aller, the other witness for the defense, who is under perjury charges, was bound over for trial in the district court.

The excellent character and consistent philanthropy of the Western Federation of Miners, the patient suffering of labor under the lash of capital and the perjury and perfidy of Harry Orchard were points in the opening argument by Mr. Richardson. In spite of the sweltering atmosphere every seat in the courtroom was occupied long before the opening of the session. Haywood's mother sat beside the prisoner; the invalid wife, daughter, sister and stepfather composed the family group, and seven of the battery of Haywood's counsel were in their places.

Death of Steunenberg.

Mr. Richardson plunged directly into the death of Governor Steunenberg in his opening sentence.

"When the death of Governor Steunenberg was flashed to the world, there was the immediate conclusion in nearly all quarters that there was some connection between the Coeur d'Alene trouble and the bomb which was placed at his gate."

Mr. Richardson then reviewed the events following the death of Former Governor Steunenberg, saying Harry Orchard was caught almost red-handed in the act. A Pinkerton detective came to Idaho and soon had a confession from a man who, to save his own worthless neck, was ready to place the blame upon others. The matter was taken up by that portion of the press which depends upon the prosperous and capitalistic classes and the leaders of the Western Federation of Miners were adjudged guilty without a hearing. So far reaching was that influence, declared Mr. Richardson, that it extended even to the White House.

The attorney begged the jurors to lay aside any impression they may have formed from reading the newspapers during the past year and to start with him at the beginning of the case and go through the various events one by one, without feeling or prejudice.

SLAIN ON THE STREET.

Wealthy New York Merchant Killed
by an Armenian.

New York, July 23.—As he stepped on the sidewalk from his store on East Seventeenth street near Union Square, Hoochans Tavshanian, a wealthy rug importer and Persian commissioner to the Chicago world's fair in 1893, was shot from behind and almost instantly killed. The assassin, a shabbily dressed Armenian who was arrested after a chase of several blocks, declared according to the police that he came here from Chicago to kill the merchant. The prisoner described himself as Beros Hamponazian, twenty-four years old, of 41 Archer street, Chicago. Later, however, he said he might be mistaken in the Chicago address.

According to the police the prisoner declared that he killed Tavshanian because the merchant had refused to contribute for the financing of a revolution in Armenia against Turkish rule.

The shooting occurred in the crowded shopping district and caused much excitement. The assassin was pursued by bystanders and when close pressed he turned and fired, seriously wounding Robert Brown, twenty-six years old, a clerk. He was finally captured.

Business associates of Tavshanian say the merchant often received letters from a secret Armenian society demanding financial aid for a proposed revolution.

The police are inclined to believe that there might be some connection between the assassination of Tavshanian and the mysterious murder of an Armenian priest, Father Kasper, whose body was found in a trunk at a lodgings here several weeks ago.

Holds a Secret Session.

The Hague, July 23.—The special commission of the peace conference appointed July 11 to draft a proposition on the laying of mines met in secret session. There was an animated discussion which showed a great divergence of opinion on this subject and an adjournment until Saturday was taken.

MARK TWAIN RETURNS.

Brings Some New Jokes Over From England.

New York, July 23.—Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) has arrived here from England bringing with him a degree of Doctors of Law recently conferred upon him by Oxford university in England and some brand new jokes.

Regarding the accounts in the English newspapers of the disappearance of the Ascot cup on the day of his arrival in England, Mr. Clemens told the reporters laughingly that he had the Ascot cup aboard. He stated that he had nothing to do with the robbery of the Dublin crown jewels, saying:

"From the character they had worked up for me they would know that I would have taken the safe as well as the jewels."

Mr. Clemens' stateroom number was 23 but he said that was some one else's joke. He was informed that the old Clemens homestead in Hannibal, Mo., was soon to be sold and Mr. Clemens quickly replied that to his knowledge the old homestead had burned down four times. Pressed to tell the best joke he heard in England, Mr. Clemens said that he was "keeping that."

He declined to tell any jokes he heard, saying that he could get 30 cents a word for them and that there were no night rates. Asked if he had enjoyed his dinner with King Edward, Mr. Clemens replied that the king did. Speaking of English humor Mr. Clemens said:

"It's all nonsense to say that this or that nation has no sense of humor. We are all alike in this world. We see things from different view points and the humorous feature appears to us in various phases."

Declared Unconstitutional.

Asheville, N. C., July 23.—Judge Pritchard in the United States court here discharged Ticket Agents Wood and Wilson of the Southern railway on habeas corpus proceedings and declared the penalty clause of the new rate bill unconstitutional. Wood and Wilson were recently sentenced to thirty days in the chain gang for violation of the law.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

After a brief illness due to the excessive heat, Captain Bart E. Linehan of Dubuque, Ia., died at Memphis, Tenn. Mr. Linehan was president of the Dubuque Light and Gas company.

Hanging by a noose made from his belt and fastened to a bedpost, the dead body of Ingebright O. Riss was found in his room in Minneapolis. Despondency is thought to have prompted the suicide.
